The Secretary-General has submitted a report to the Security Council on the implementation of its resolution 1625 (2005) on conflict prevention, particularly in Africa (S/2008/18). In its introduction, the report notes that:

A culture of prevention is taking hold at the United Nations; awareness of the importance of prevention has spread, and the commitment to building and mainstreaming its tools has taken root. Progress is being made in strengthening the Organization's ability to respond to disputes or situations that might lead to violence and to address the root causes of conflict.

Erosion of trade preferences in the post-Hong Kong framework: From "trade is better than aid" to "aid for trade" (UNCTAD report)

http://www.unctad.org/en/docs/lcd20056_en.pdf

A new study of the UN Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) looks at the erosion of trade preferences since the WTO's Hong Kong conference in 2005. The report examines which products and countries have benefited the most from existing preferences granted by the United States, Japan and the European Union and finds the issue of erosion of trade preferences remains to be addressed to the satisfaction of many developing countries.

Global Economic Prospects 2008 (World Bank)

<http://go.worldbank.org/RUTFVOKW40>

Global Economic Prospects 2008 notes that rapid technological progress in developing countries has helped to raise incomes and reduce the share of people living in absolute poverty from 29 percent in 1990 to 18 percent in 2004. Despite these gains, the technology gap between rich and poor countries remains enormous, and the capacity of developing economies to adopt new technology remains weak. With the subtitle Technology Diffusion in the Developing World, the World Bank report notes that recent progress reflects increased exposure to foreign technologies.

Global Employment Trends 2008 (ILO)

English, French & Spanish:

http://www.ilo.org/global/What_we_do/Publications/lang--en/docName--WCMS_090106/index.htm

The International Labour Office (ILO) has released "Global Employment Trends 2008". The report analyses the impact on labour markets of a wide range of factors, including population and economic growth, economic effects of the credit crisis in industrialized countries, rising oil prices, and a projected slowdown in economic growth. According to the press release, "economic turbulence largely due to credit market turmoil and rising oil prices could spur an increase in global unemployment by an estimated 5 million persons in 2008."

The State of the World's Children 2008 (UNICEF report)

English: <http://www.unicef.org/sowc08/>

French: <http://www.unicef.org/french/sowc08/index.php>

Spanish: <http://www.unicef.org/spanish/sowc08/index.php>

The State of the World's Children 2008 assesses the state of child survival and primary health care for mothers, newborns and children today. These issues serve as sensitive barometers of a country's development and wellbeing and as evidence of its priorities and values. Investing in the health of children and their mothers is a human rights imperative and one of the surest ways for a country to set its course towards a better future.
