Synopsis

As climate change, pollution and the loss of biodiversity worsen, our faith in our ability to reverse the trend is being put to the test.

Dr. Jane Goodall's new documentary illustrates, through inspiring initiatives across the world, that there is still hope.

All of us have a part to play. Will you join the call?

A documentary by Jane Goodall

Running Time 44 minutes

About the 75th Anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights

Rebirth often follows decimation. And so, in the aftermath of World War II, on 10 December 1948, the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

If there was ever a moment to rekindle the hope of human rights for every person, it is now. We reinvigorate the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, showing the ways it meets the needs of our time, and advancing its promise of freedom, equality, and justice for all.

“We need to make peace with nature.
Without nature’s help, we cannot thrive
or even survive on this planet Earth”

António Guterres,
United Nations Secretary-General
